

Electronic Recyclers, Inc. CMO and Co-Founder, Kevin Dillon Honored at Business Street's "40 Under 40" Reception

01/18/08

Kevin Dillon, Chief Marketing Officer and co-founder of Electronic Recyclers, Inc. (ERI), was named one of Business Street's first "40 Under 40" Award recipients at the Downtown Club in Fresno last night.

Dillon has played a significant role in paving the way for an emerging new industry -- that of electronic recycling. Alongside Fresno-based entrepreneur and ERI's CEO, John S. Shegerian, Dillon has constructed a new gold standard in an emerging industry and has helped lead ERI to a place of national influence.

Beyond playing a key role overseeing the top to bottom operations of the organization, Dillon's work also includes managing corporate sales, overseeing internal operations, acquisitions and all business development for the company. Under his leadership, ERI has become the pacesetter for all electronic recycling organizations globally, and the rise to the top has occurred in only three years! ERI now recycles 120 million pounds of e-waste annually, making it the largest single e-waste recycler in the world.

"I've been working with Kevin for more than eight years now on various projects," said Shegerian, "and he is a remarkable, intuitively successful businessman, with sage leadership qualities superior to those of the vast majority of businesspeople twice Kevin's age. His contributions to ERI have been a fundamental element of our success and I am very proud to have him as my partner."

Business Street's 40 Under 40 reception celebrates hard working individuals in central California who have achieved great success before the age of 40. Considered leaders in the community, both civically as well as professionally, they are businesspeople that Business Street has deemed on the path towards an even greater future.

Dillon earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Finance from California State University, Fresno.
