

Clear Channel's "Green is Good" Environmental Radio Show Hosts Green Leaders

May 6, 2010

The Clear Channel Produced "Green is Good" radio show has announced its roster of guests for the months of May and June, revealing the leading green businesses and organizations, each taking unique measures to protect our planet.

The weekly interview program, co-hosted by John Shegerian (Chairman and CEO of Electronic Recyclers International, the nation's leading recycler of electronic waste), and radio veteran Mike Brady, is the #1 green themed radio show in the country. The program is also available for free on iTunes as a podcast.

Coming up in the next several episodes of Green is Good are spokespeople from businesses with green initiatives such as Coors, Timberland, Hewlett-Packard, Roto Rooter and the National Basketball Association (NBA). Other guests of note for the coming two months include trailblazing green organizations such as the NRDC, GenGreen, Green America and Recycling Today Magazine.

In each show, Shegerian and Brady open the floor to discussions about the environment and what businesses and individuals can do each day to live lives that follow the major tenets of sustainability – people, planet and profits.

"We're the number one green radio show in the country, inspiring our listeners from coast to coast and beyond," said Shegerian. "The response has been awesome – both from listeners and potential guests. It's extremely rewarding to be providing a forum for the true rock stars of the green revolution where their cutting edge green ideas can be exchanged."

To hear any episode of the Green is Good radio program on demand, simply search for "green is good" in the iTunes podcast directory or follow this direct link: <http://bit.ly/greenisgood>.

For more information on e-waste recycling, ERI, and all other recycling needs, please visit www.electronicrecyclers.com, <http://1800recycling.com> or www.urbanmining.org.